REGAIN IN CONTACT

The solutions developed by Recornect are aimed at de-escalation in crisis situations. They help vulnerable people in a crisis situation to recover themselves and to restore contact with themselves and others. By staying in contact, recovery from a crisis can be started earlier. Recornect solutions are developed based on practical experience, the insights of experts by experience and the stories care workers tell. It is precisely because the development starts from the perspective of the client that Recornect solutions have a broad application and are more quickly embraced.

RECOVERY VISION CENTRAL

The Recornect team started an innovative quest, some years ago, for supporting technology for use in crisis care. The recovery vision is a major source of inspiration for them. A vision which increases people's chances of proposing their own solutions which are suited to their own solution strategies and coping style.

TEAM MEMBERS WHO ARE EXPERTS BY EXPERIENCE

For that reason, the Recornect team does not consist solely of experienced care workers, care professionals and technical specialists. In order to fundamentally anchor in the organisation the idea of thinking from the perspective of the client, we also work closely with experts by experience who have needed mental healthcare in their own lives. One such expert is Alwin Verdonk. Without the keen eye of expert by experience Alwin, the Recornect solutions would not be nearly as valuable and meaningful as they are.

“I find my work at Recornect really worthwhile because our solutions give back some measure of independence to people who are dependent and vulnerable. We help people, where possible, by giving them back self-management and focusing on their potential. No matter how intense their situation is, even at rock bottom, there is a piece in everyone that is healthy. Precisely by taking that as the starting point, you offer vulnerable people some perspective again, something that is essential to their recovery.”

PERSONAL SOLUTION STRATEGIES

Reconnect believes in supporting a client's own solution strategies for regaining contact. One important focal point in a crisis situation is that everyone involved shares in the search for a solution. By focusing on a person's own solution strategies, the ownership and responsibility of everyone concerned is preserved. Not only that, it makes sure that vulnerable people do not lose contact with themselves and their care workers in a severe crisis. Alwin Verdonk: "Great things happen when you offer vulnerable people perspective and a share of the solution. We give them space to grow, to feel human again and to get past the stigma. Precisely by focusing on what is possible, we speed up recovery."

NEW OPTIONS FOR CARE WORKERS

The CoWin media wall offers care workers in mental healthcare the possibility of giving the right care without ignoring self-management and the personal potential of the person undergoing treatment. The CoWin media wall supports the way in which people can help themselves in a crisis and helps them de-escalate. The media wall makes sure that a solution can be offered even in the most severe crisis. Where the care worker may have to stop because it could get too intense, that is the point where the CoWin carries on.

PERSONALISED PRODUCTS

Even in the most severe phase of their crisis, the person being treated can retain self-management with the help of the CoWin media wall. Supported by the care worker, they get appropriate access to their own solutions in the form of personalised apps. The CoWin media wall enables care workers to narrow down the framework in the event of a loss of control by reducing the number of apps that can be accessed. When the level of reflection in the person experiencing crisis has been sufficiently restored, the framework can be expanded. Care workers can then also extend the possibilities for self-management in the form of apps.

MEDIA WALL AS PART OF THE TREATMENT PLAN

Several qualitative research studies have established that the apps are seen as a constructive tool by both patients and care workers. This creates new options for people experiencing crisis. The tool also positively influences the duration and quality of care during a possible confinement.

COWIN MEDIA WALL

Recorconnect solutions are based on the crisis development model.

The CoWin media wall was developed to be deployed just before the peak.

The CoWin media wall offers care workers in mental healthcare the possibility of providing the right care safely, even in the most severe crisis. Thanks to GRASP software, a compilation of apps can be tailored to each individual undergoing treatment, appropriate for their needs and options.

At present, Recorconnect has at its disposal the CoWin-48 and the CoWin-32. Both media walls are suitable for deployment in spaces which have to comply with high security requirements. Recorconnect solutions are deployed in mental health care, forensic psychiatry, child and youth psychiatry, care for those with an intellectual disability and in custodial institutions.

OUR STORY

Reconnect was set up by care professionals and technicians with years of practical experience in psychiatric care. Joined by a group of experts by experience, they work on bottom-up solutions for the improvement of psychiatric care, care within custodial institutions and care for the mentally disabled. Reconnect's goal is to offer social solutions using innovative techniques to replace predominantly clinical solutions.
